REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Vinita, I. T., June 21.—The thirty-sixth annual reunion of the Watts family and a Masonic celebration will be held at Muldrow, June 24 and 25.

The Wattses were for years claimants to citizenship in the Cherokee Nation and a legal fight between them and the Cherokees was waged for years, until finally the Dawes Commission appeared upon the scene and settled the matter, and all the Wattses were rejected. They were intruders upon the lands of the Cherokees and made permanent and valuable improvements without any legal right. They were finally divested of all the Indian land they held and they now reside in the Indian Territory as other United States citizens, but do not own land as Indians. They at one time had charge of more than $1,09,000 worth of Indian lands.

The head of the family is W. I. Watts. lands.

The head of the family is W. J. Watts, who was known to the Cherokees as the "King of the Intruders," and he has cost the Cherokee Nation more than any other living man. Many years ago these reunions were held for mutual advice, but since they have been divested of landed rights these meetings are kept up for their social features.

Frederick W. Hyatt Sues for Di vorce After Twenty Years of Separation.

Macon, Mo., June 21.-A bill of divorce was filed in the Circuit Court yesterday that reads like an indictment for witchcraft.

Frederick W. Hyatt, an old soldier, states that he was married to Martha A. Hyatt in Monroe City, June 10, 1850, and that immediately thereafter he joined the army to obtain "pence and quiet." He came back from the war and tried it again, but it was no use, he says. He stood her "fussing and growling" until 1882, when there was an actual but not a legal separation.

an actual but not a legal separation.

It seemed there was no ground for either party to get into the divorce court until recently, when Hyait says he heard that the partner of his miseries in the year 1830 went out on the public street in North Bend, Neb., and prayed that the plaintiff would "fall down and break his neck and love everything he had on earth and become a pauper." and had made various other similar invocations.

The seasons came and went for twelve long years, and Hyatt never fell down and

The seasons came and went for twelve long years, and Hyatt never fell down and broke his neck and never lost his property, but when he heard of his wife's alleged action, be instructed his attorneys to get up a bill forthwith and spread it on the record.

Hyatt draws a pension from the Government and he alleges that his wife tried to have his pension revoked.

SPECIAL BY CARLE TO THE NEW FORK
HERALD AND THE ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC.
London, June 21.—(Copyright, 1962)—Although most English fashions come from abroad, when anything new and charming spears in England, people are always ready and eager to support it. The royal family is generally foremost in such a movement.

The Princess of Wales is so interested in the charming fashion of flower painting on velvet that she has commanded Miss Edith Cowan to paint her a cushion center.
A great many other important people have had dresses decorated in the same way, while Miss Maris Corelli had an exquisite white velvet table center painted with roses on the occasion of a rose dinner she gave at her home in Stratford-on-Avon.

Boat Sticks on Sandbar and Effort to Drive to Destination Results in Fatal Accident.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Clarksville, Tenn., June 21 .- For the last week the steamer Dunbar has been on a sand bar near Harpeth Shoals Cumberland River, about twenty-five miles above Clarksville. dren, who rode behind the wagon in Mrs. Draughan's phaeton, which she had on board the boat.

When the party reached a point near Half Pone. Tenn. on the road to this city, their wagon struck a log beside the road and was overturned. The driver, a white man from here named Hatcher, and the Draughan child jumped and escaped without hurt. The ladles were thrown out onto the los with the trunks on top of them.

Mrs. Lewis, who is about 71 years of age, was fatally hurt; Mrs. McGregor received internal injuries of a serious nature, but may recover; Mrs. Durk was painfuily bruised, but not seriously hurt; Mrs. Buck's grandchild was rendered unconscious, but not badly hurt. Mrs. McGregor was thrown into a near-by creek and remained unconscious in the water an hour before the was rescued.

Jackets and Furs in Summer

Are not ordinarily thought of, but a local store evidently believes them to be salable at this season of the year, judsing from the advertisement of Grand-Leader in to-day's Republic, in which the entire stock of J.
S. Salkey, No. 694 North Broadway, is offered at astonishingly low prices.

The heavy-weight garments and furs are by no means in the majority, however,
forming but a small part of the superts
stock of ladies' suits, costumes, skirts, waists, silk petiticoats, wrappers, etc.,
which the Grand-Leader offers to-morrow's bargain seekers.

It is a sale with decidedly interesting characteristics, and will undoubtedly prove a great attraction to women with economical tendences. Jackets and Furs in Summer

Brilliant Opening of Finest of Its Fashionable France Awakens to Needs of Children.

SPECIAL BY CABLE TO THE NEW YORK HERALD AND THE ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC. Parls, June 31.—(Copyright, 1903)—Fashionable France is beginning to realize that its children are far behind other countries in athletics. The upper ten are now encouraging youngsters to indulge in recreation. After the hack show at Bagatelle Wednesday this was strongly evidenced, when the children of elite Parisian society competed in various sports. I saw Baron Legeune and the Duc de Brissac busy putting the young racers in their places, the Comts de Beaumont acting as judge.
